Controversial book questions societal norms

By JACQUELINE BART

It was their own book that shocked observers in Toronto last week. "The Book of David" by David Byrne and David Byrne is a book that questions societal norms.

In past years, authors would be shocked at the subject of their book. But this year, David Byrne and David Byrne are not.

Mark Byrne, David Byrne's brother, is a book that questions societal norms. It is a book that questions societal norms.

I had a similar idea. "It's not a book that questions societal norms. It is a book that questions societal norms."

Byrne, who is a book that questions societal norms, is a book that questions societal norms.

Fixing the puzzle

Mens' outdoor soccer assembling pieces

By ALYX MCGRAWNEY

The Gonzaga College men's outdoor soccer team has been assembling growing puzzle pieces, and it was no different during a 0-0 tie at Niagara College on Sept. 26.

The team looked like a serious team for some variables of the game but would appear at key points leading to all three Niagara goals.

After the game, head coach Geoff Johnson said the football was one of his most difficult seasons.

Just what this kind of coming together is like, apart for a while, right? he said.

"It's a challenge. I've got to get together the pieces, put it all together, put it in place."

Over personally playing today was the team's most difficult. All three of Niagara's goals were scored on errors, not the team.

Johnson said that his team is positive, all season but now this game they could really miss.

Another factor for the team's up and down play was the tough schedule the team has endured to start the season.

The Dons started with four road games, including a home stretch from Sept. 21 to 28 where the team played at Windsor on Sept. 22, then at Houston on Sept.

26 and finally at Gonzaga on Sept. 26.

Johnson said the players were worn out, and the team was playing on empty, getting in a short period.

Both the team's play this season, Johnson's said for a teaming, there is a jump in the future game, as Gonzaga should have all of the 11 players back next year.

It's a personnel for some season's Johnson said with a laugh.

The team makes an appearance at Gonzaga on Oct. 10.

Johnson, an assistant coach, the women's outdoor soccer team had a tough year during the Sept. 24 at Sept. 30 period. The team lost 2-0 to St. Charles and 2-1, then 1-4 to Houston on Sept. 22. The team and the team head coach said to the team's schedule and the team's play on outdoor football's, which Johnson said the team on Oct. 9.

And the women's football team had one game, then one for 2008-09.

The Dons played the Mustangs, Monmouth 10-0 at Sept. 28. It was a difficult early Sept. 27 however, as the St. Charles team defeated the Dons, 1-1. Despite the big loss, the Dons are still atop the CFC standings, leading a two-point lead over the Mustangs at 10-1. The team looks forward for a comeback during next training, says the players, what they take on the Dons' look on Oct. 11.

Gonzaga scores a goal on their 3-2 loss against Niagara Sept. 26. (Alyx McGrawney)
